OUR WAR.

By REV. DR. C. E. JEFFERSON, in the Broadway Tabernacle, New York.

"America has been a great world power for years. How did she become such? By her army? No. By her navy? No. By dabbling in diplomacy? No. By colonies and dependencies? No. By the cultivation of the arts of peace. By attending to her own business. By building colleges and schools and churches. By developing free institutions. We started poor and without a friend. We are to-day one of the richest of all nations. We have not fooled away our time in drilling and marching. We have worked. We have not squandered our money on armies and navies. We have built it into schools. And to-day we are a power in the world. It is absurd to think that a nation cannot be a great world power without an immense army. 'A great naval power' in many a circle is a phrase to conjure with. 'A great Christian power,' to my ears sounds much better."

"A battleship is more attractive even yet to millions than the man who hangs on the cross. But that man on the cross sways the future! He alone holds a scepter that shall not be broken. After the towers of Westminster Abbey have crumbled to dust, the Kingdom of Christ will still be young. Of the increase of His government there shall be no end. It is earnestly questioned whether England has not already reached the zenith of her greatness. As Captain Mahan says, 'She is gorged with land and her statesmen are weary of looking after it.' She has dependencies, but as Disraeli long ago asserted, they are a millstone about her neck. She has a mighty navy, but dearly does she pay for it. Upon her army and navy over one-third of her vast revenues are annually expended, while her paupers increase with the years."

"America isolated? No! Where is there a land which her influence has not reached? Her merchants trade in every market. Her missionaries labor under every flag. Her ideas have touched and thrilled the hearts of men under every sun. She has done more for freedom and human happiness and peace within the last hundred years than any other nation in the world."

"This is my ambition for America—that we may found our empire upon love; that we may spend our money on churches and schools, libraries and hospitals; that we may build ourselves in righteousness, so that wherever an American citizen may go upon the earth he will be honored and loved, not because of our battleships, but because he represents a nation which has nothing but justice and kindness for all races of men."

[Amen—EDITOR.]

DOUBTLESS.

Doubtless, with a great army and navy foreign nations would fear us as they now fear England.

But would they love us any better?

Would they give us and our "Bands of Mercy," and plans of humane education, and the promotion of peace on earth a warmer welcome to their shores?

We think not.

GEO. T. ANGELL.

"Blessed are the Merciful."

"War is Hell for Horses."

FOR THE WOUNDED AND SUFFERING HORSES AND MULES.

Our readers are familiar with the correspondence we have had with Secretaries Long and Alger and our U. S. Quartermaster-General in regard to the above subject.

We are glad to see in the Boston Morning Journal of July 9th the following:

"Friends of dumb beasts will be pleased with the order which enjoins the appointment of veterinary surgeons or other officers to go over each battle-field and end the suffering of all horses and mules that are in agony."

FIVE THOUSAND LIVES SAVED.

We are rejoiced to find in our morning paper of July 18th a dispatch from General Shafter announcing the surrender of Santiago, which surrender, he says, has saved the lives of five thousand American soldiers; but we should have been still more rejoiced if the more than five thousand human lives which have been lost in battles or by starvation since the beginning of this war could have been saved by a continuance of the peaceful negotiations of President McKinley, which were almost completed when Congress broke in.

In the same paper we find the narrow trail from Juragua to the front is cut to pieces by a constant stream of wagons, and it takes hours for a supply wagon drawn by four starved, exhausted horses to make the twelve-mile trip.

A PRAYER FOR PEACE.

[Suggested by reading June, '98, Our Dumb Animals.]

O God of all might!
Hear the prayer of Thy Son—
Let this strife be done;
Great God, speed the right!

Our sons know no fears,
They are men every one.
The fight must be won,
But O God! the tears!

Tears, rivers of tears,
Tears, tears of fond lovers,
Tears of old mothers,
Tears, tears through the years.

But O, the glory!
Yes! and embittered lives;
Glory! and widowed wives;
Love slain and gory.

This is not Thy way,
This fierce carnage and strife,
This bitterness rife—
God! send peace we pray!

The foe has done wrong,
But O, do we the right
To lengthen earth's night?
To forgive make us strong.

BEAUTIFUL LEGEND.

There is a legend illustrating the blessedness of performing our duty at whatever cost to our own inclination. A beautiful vision of our Savior had appeared to a monk, and in silent bliss he was gazing upon it. The hour arrived in which it was his duty to feed the poor of the convent. He lingered not in his cell to enjoy the vision, but left to perform his humble duty. When he returned he again saw the blessed vision, and heard these words: "Hadst thou staid, I should have left thee."

IT MAKES US HAPPY.

It makes us happy to find in our evening paper of July 18th that in all the Catholic churches in the archdiocese of Boston, yesterday, the "prayer for peace" was offered by direction of Archbishop Williams. Until the war ends the prayer will be said at every mass. At all the churches the people were informed of the order directing the offering of the prayer. They were told that it was the wish of Archbishop Williams that every one should pray for the same intention.

And we were also glad to find in the same paper this:

In Tremont Temple yesterday morning the pastor, Rev. George C. Lorimer, D.D., preached on "The Higher Ministry of Men and Nations." In part, he said: "Knowing what I know of Washington, I dread the thought of a big indemnity finding its way to Washington and into the hands of our manipulators of public bodies. I say as a preacher and as an American citizen that I don't want to see us countenance a policy that will transfer the curse from the Cuban peasant and put it upon the back of the poor Spanish peasant beyond the sea."

SPAIN AND CUBA.

We have no particular love for either the Spaniards or Cubans—with their bull-fights and cock-fights and other forms of cruelty.

We should be glad to see them in some way brought up to a higher civilization.

But we very much doubt whether the sacrifice and suffering of lives, both human and animal, which this war has already cost, and the much greater sacrifice which it is quite likely to cost before we get through with it, and the hundreds of millions of dollars we have already spent in it, and the thousands of millions we may have to spend before all its complications are ended—we very much doubt whether these things are not a terrible waste of both lives and money, which might have been used a thousand times more profitably in other ways.

Granted that we are rich and Spain poor, that we are strong and Spain weak, that if other nations do not interfere we can take Cuba, Porto Rico, the Ladrões, the Philippines, bombard Spanish cities, destroy millions and perhaps billions of Spanish property, all for the purpose, as we are told, of raising these peoples to a higher civilization, still we think we can see ways in which all this could have been better and more surely accomplished with no loss of life and little cost of money.

And so we must believe that this war is a terrible mistake, which sooner or later our nation will fully realize.

GEO. T. ANGELL.

HORSES AND MULES IN TROUSERS.

In view of the sufferings of horses and mules, as well as soldiers, in our war with Spain, the following may be a useful hint:

MULES IN TROUSERS.

George Finney, an express wagon driver, has clothed his mules' forelegs in trousers. In speaking of it he said that flies bothered the forelegs of a four-footed animal more than they did the hind limbs, and he, therefore, having some respect for the comfort of his faithful servants, had made a pair of trousers to protect them from the pests. The trousers were supported by suspenders passed up over the backs of the animals.

Nebraska State Journal.

Founders of American Band of Mercy.

GEO. T. ANGELL and REV. THOMAS TIMMINS.

Officers of Parent American Band of Mercy.

GEO. T. ANGELL, President; JOSEPH L. STEVENS, Secretary.

Over thirty-four thousand branches of the Parent American Band of Mercy have been formed, with probably over a million members.

PLEDGE.

"I will try to be kind to all harmless living creatures, and try to protect them from cruel usage."

Any Band of Mercy member who wishes can cross out the word harmless from his or her pledge. M. S. P. C. A. on our badges means "Merciful Society Prevention of Cruelty to All."

We send without cost, to every person asking, a copy of "Band of Mercy Information" and other publications.

Also without cost, to every person who writes that he or she has formed a "Band of Mercy" by obtaining the signatures of thirty adults or children or both—either signed or authorized to be signed—to the pledge, also the name chosen for the "band" and the name and post-office address [town and State] of the president:

1. Our monthly paper, "OUR DUMB ANIMALS," full of interesting stories and pictures, for one year.

2. Mr. Angell's Address to the High, Latin, Normal and Grammar Schools of Boston.

3. Copy of Band of Mercy Songs.

4. Twelve Lessons on Kindness to Animals, containing many anecdotes.

5. Eight Humane Leaflets, containing pictures and one hundred selected stories and poems.

6. For the President, an imitation gold badge.

The head officers of Juvenile Temperance Associations, and teachers and Sunday school teachers, should be presidents of Bands of Mercy.

Nothing is required to be a member but to sign the pledge, or authorize it to be signed.

Any intelligent boy or girl fourteen years old can form a Band with no cost, and receive what we offer, as before stated.

The prices for badges, gold or silver imitation, are eight cents large, five cents small; ribbon, gold stamped, eight cents, ink printed, four cents; song and hymn books, with fifty-two songs and hymns, two cents; cards of membership, two cents; and membership book, eight cents. The "Twelve Lessons on Kindness to Animals" cost only two cents for the whole, bound together in one pamphlet. The Humane Leaflets cost twenty-five cents a hundred, or eight for five cents.

Everybody, old or young, who wants to do a kind act, to make the world happier and better, is invited to address, by letter or postal, GEO. T. ANGELL, Esq., President, 19 Milk Street, Boston, Mass., and receive full information.

Good Order of Exercises for Band of Mercy Meetings:

1—Sing Band of Mercy song or hymn, and repeat the Pledge together. [See Melodies.]

2—Remarks by President, and reading of Report of last meeting by Secretary.

3—Readings, "Angell Prize Contest Recitations," "Memory Gems," and anecdotes of good and noble sayings and deeds done to both human and dumb creatures, with vocal and instrumental music.

4—Sing Band of Mercy song or hymn.

5—A brief address. Members may then tell what they have done to make human and dumb creatures happier and better.

6—Enrollment of new members.

7—Sing Band of Mercy song or hymn.

OUR SPANISH COPIES OF "BLACK BEAUTY."

We have sent quite a number of copies of this book to the Spanish prisoners at Portsmouth and also to Admiral Cervera and the Spanish officers at Annapolis, Maryland.

I think you will be glad to know that your "Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals" has sufficient influence to stop a passenger train in Vermont an hour and a quarter, to take on two cars of cattle bound for Brighton.

JAMES A. BURGESS.

THE GIFFORD FOUNTAIN.

Passing on this very warm July 18th the fountain for horses we caused to be erected a few years since on the corner of Brighton, Brookline and Commonwealth avenues, in memory of Mrs. Ellen M. Gifford of New Haven, Conn., we found six teams of working horses stopping there to drink.

Perhaps for a hundred years and perhaps for a thousand this fountain will give relief and happiness to those for whom it was erected.

LETTER FROM JAMES A. BURGESS, Esq.

BOSTON, July 19, 1898.

GEO. T. ANGELL, Esq., President.

Dear Sir:—A few days since I was in Rutland, Vermont. I wanted to take the train for Bellows Falls, which leaves Rutland at 2 45 P. M. I found that the train to Bellows Falls was held at Rutland an hour and a quarter beyond its regular time of starting, and I went to headquarters to ascertain the reason and they told me that the train was held because they had a telegram from Burlington that there were two carloads of cattle bound for Brighton and they must hitch those cars onto that train so as to get them through to Brighton that night, because the "Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals" would not allow the cattle to remain on the train over night without being fed and watered.

EIGHT INTERESTING ITEMS.

(1) We received to-day orders for our various publications from California, from England and from Mrs. Chief Justice Bartholomew of Bismarck, North Dakota.

(2) An order for 500 copies of our "Twelve Lessons on Kindness," and 117 annual subscriptions for "Our Dumb Animals" from the Society at the Cape of Good Hope, South Africa.

(3) An order for our various publications from the Exposition at Omaha, Nebraska.

(4) Order for our publications from the Delaware Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

(5) Additional order from the city of Haverhill, Mass., for cloth bound "Black Beauty," to be used in the public schools.

(6) Annual subscriptions for 25 copies of "Our Dumb Animals" from North Truro, Mass.

(7) Order from a Philadelphia lady for "Black Beauty" to be sent to a large number of persons in England, and in six of our United States.

(8) Orders to send copies of our Spanish "Black Beauty" to Cervera and Spanish officers at Annapolis.

Our creed and the creed of our "American Humane Education Society," as appears on its battle-flags—its badges—and its official seal, is "Glory to God," "Peace on Earth," "Kindness, Justice and Mercy to every living creature."

GEO. T. ANGELL, President, 19 Milk St.

BACK NUMBERS FOR DISTRIBUTION.

Persons wishing Our Dumb Animals for gratuitous distribution can send us five cents to pay postage, and receive ten copies, or ten cents and receive twenty copies. We cannot afford larger numbers at this price.

TEACHERS AND CANVASSERS.

Teachers can have Our Dumb Animals one year for twenty-five cents.

Persons wishing to canvass for the paper will please make application to this office.

Our American Humane Education Society sends this paper this month to the editors of over twenty thousand newspapers and magazines.

OUR AMBULANCE

Can be had at any hour of the day or night by calling Telephone 992 Tremont.

Horse owners are expected to pay reasonable charges.

In emergency cases of severe injury, where owners are unable to pay, the ambulance will be sent at the expense of the Society.

SUBSCRIPTIONS AND REMITTANCES.

We would respectfully ask all persons who send us subscriptions or remittances to examine our report of receipts, which is published in each number of our paper, and if they do not find the sums they have sent properly credited, kindly notify us.

If correspondents fail to get satisfactory answers please write again, and on the envelope put the word "Personal."

My correspondence is now so large that I can read only a small part of the letters received, and seldom long ones.
GEO. T. ANGELL.

We are glad to publish this month nine hundred and ninety-three new branches of our Band of Mercy, making a total of thirty-four thousand one hundred and three.

DOCKING.

(1) Budd Doble, the veteran trainer, says: "I would not own a docked horse."

(2) Dr. John Caswell, Vet. Surgeon, Chicago, says: "Docking is the most fiendish torture that mankind has inflicted upon a noble creature."

(3) The Chief Veterinarian of the English army, Dr. Geo. Fleming, says: "Nothing can be more disgusting to the real horseman than this barbarous and detestable fashion."

(4) When men commit such a cruelty as docking horses they give good evidence that the whipping post was abolished too soon.—The Rural Stockman.

(5) He who docks a horse should be confined naked on a sugar dock in fly time, with his hands tied behind him.—New Orleans Picayune.

SOME OF NEW YORK'S "400."

(From The Union Signal, Chicago.)

Some of New York's "400," written by Adella Octavia Clouston, is meeting with great success. The manuscript of the book won the highest prize offered by "The American Humane Education Society." It had a romantic experience, in that it went to the bottom of the Hudson river in a terrible railroad accident in which many lives were lost, October 24, 1897, but was recovered and made available after considerable time. The story is laid among the "upper ten" of New York city, and is very bright and interesting. Like "Black Beauty" and "Beautiful Joe" it will make its converts by the thousands to the humane treatment of dumb animals. The author was already known to the world through several other books, but by this she will come into the hearts and lives of many more who will think of her as the one who opened to them a new world of kindly sentiment toward the creatures that do not talk, and unto whom we stand as kings and princesses, or as demons and devils. Mr. Geo. T. Angell, president of the American Humane Education Society, 19 Milk Street, Boston, offers the book for ten cents, which is much below cost, that it may have the widest possible circulation.

BE KIND TO YOUR HORSE.

On a very hot day keep a sponge, a towel, or your handkerchief, soaked with pure cold water on the top of your horse's head.

If your horse's back is sore use pure cold water on it freely every time the saddle is removed.

In hot weather tell your herdic, or cab, or carriage driver to drive slowly, especially up hills, and give him five or ten cents extra for doing it.

In hot weather be sure your check-rein is loose and your horse frequently watered.

In hot weather a mouthful of grass, or a piece of bread or a cracker will help your horse wonderfully.

OUR NEW "BANDS OF MERCY."

We publish in this number the names of between one and two thousand new "Bands of Mercy" recently organized by our American Humane Education Society. Since our last report our Massachusetts organizer, Mr. Leach, has been at work in the towns of Falmouth, Chatham, Dennis, Harwich, Truro, Orleans, Brewster and Yarmouth, Mass., and our Western organizer in various towns of Indiana.

OUR SECRETARY OF THE NAVY.

As our readers know, Secretary Long heads the vice-presidents of our "American Humane Education Society" and, as they will also remember, he was chairman of the committee who, year before last, awarded the prize of $200 which our Society offered for the best plan of peacefully settling the Venezuela difficulties.

The other two [Judge Bennett of our Boston University Law School, and Patrik Donahoe of the Boston Pilot and Donahoe's Magazine] were appointed by The Most Reverend Roman Catholic Archbishop John J. Williams and The Right Reverend William Lawrence, Episcopal Bishop of Massachusetts.

One hundred and forty-eight plans were submitted by writers in the District of Columbia, Canada, and twenty-four of our States.

Every kind word you say to a dumb animal or bird will make you happier.

HUMANE EDUCATION AND PREVENTION OF CRUELTY TO ANIMALS.

At the July meeting of the directors of "The American Humane Education Society" and "Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals" held on the 20th ult., President Angell reported that the city agents had dealt during the month with 2180 complaints of cruelty, taken 87 horses from work, and mercifully killed 117 horses and other animals.

That country agents had since last quarterly report dealt with 1195 complaints of cruelty, taken 224 horses from work, and mercifully killed 121 horses and other animals.

209 new "Bands of Mercy" had been formed during the month, making a total of 34,119.

The Massachusetts Society has received under the will of Miss Edith Rotch, $5,000.

MR. PERCIVAL D. RICHARDS.

Many friends of dumb animals will be sorry to learn of the death by paralysis, in his sixty-ninth year, of Mr. Percival D. Richards, of West Medford, Mass., a gentleman who has taken a very deep interest in the prevention of all forms of cruelty to the lower animals.

THE LARK'S SURPRISING SONG.

Rev. J. G. Wood, in an article on "The Wonders of the Spring," says that the volume of sound produced by the skylark is most wonderful. "The lark ascends until it looks no larger than a midge, and can with difficulty be seen by the unaided eye, and yet every note will be clearly audible to persons who are fully half a mile from the nest over which the bird utters its song. Moreover, it never ceases to sing for a moment, a feat which seems wonderful to us human beings, who find that a song of six or seven minutes in length, though interspersed with rests and pauses, is more than trying. Even a practiced public speaker, though he can pause at the end of each sentence, finds the applause of the audience a very welcome relief. Moreover, the singer and speaker need to use no exertion save exercising their voices. Yet the bird will pour out a continuous song of nearly twenty minutes in length, and all the time has to support itself in the air by the constant use of its wings."

THE WAYSIDE INN.

I halted at a pleasant inn,
As I my way was wending;
A golden apple was the sign,
From knotty bough depending.

Mine host—it was an apple-tree—
He smilingly received me,
And spread his choicest, sweetest fruit
To strengthen and relieve me.

Full many a feathered guest
Came through his branches springing;
They hopped and flew from spray to spray,
Their notes of gladness singing.

Beneath his shade I laid me down,
And slumber sweet possessed me;
The soft wind blowing through the leaves
With whispers low caressed me.

And when I rose and would have paid
My host so open-hearted,
He only shook his lofty head,
I blessed him and departed.

OUR NATIONAL BIRD.

Last week a pet eagle created a sensation in Susquehanna county. Mr. Abram Nash trapped the bird of freedom last summer and tamed it, so that it became a pet and playmate of his children. Mrs. Nash visited a neighbor's house and left the bird and her baby playing, and when she returned the eagle was on the woodshed with the child in its talons. A hunter came along with a gun. Before he could shoot, the eagle flew off with the babe. The child was heavy, and it was impossible for the bird to rise more than twenty feet above the ground. It offered an easy mark, but the man was afraid to shoot on account of the child. After chasing the eagle and its prey for a quarter of a mile, the hunter shot at the bird and broke one of its wings. The great bird beat the air furiously with its remaining wing for a full minute, and then began to fall. The mother rushed for her crying child and soon clasped it to her bosom. The eagle continued to fight, but it was soon killed with the butt of the rifle. It measured seven feet from tip to tip of wings. The child was little injured.

MEMORIAL DAY.

With waving of starry banners,
With music of bugle sweet,
All day through our streets has echoed
The tramp of marching feet.
From many a mountain valley,
From city and town and hill,
Around the graves where their comrades sleep
The soldiers gather still.

They think of the bitter partings
When first they marched away—
*The ranks of blue from the northland,
From the sunny south the gray—*
Some with hearts that were eager
And hot with the fire of youth,
Some with a purpose steady
To fight for God and truth.

They think of the battle's tumult
And the cannon's sullen roar,
And the yellow glow of sunset light
When the weary fight was o'er,
When, gathered around the camp fire,
Their yearning thoughts would roam,
As softly sweet some comrade sang
The words of "Home, Sweet Home."

They remember the solemn roll calls
And the silent pause that came
When in the hush the sergeant called
Some missing soldier's name.
They remember the days of terror,
And nights that were long with dread,
When left alone on the field they watched
With the dying and the dead.

With ranks that are growing thinner
Each year the soldiers meet,
All day through our streets has echoed
The tramp of their marching feet.
And year by year we gather,
With wreaths and garlands gay,
To deck the graves where dreaming lie
The ranks of blue and gray.

ANGELINA W. WRAY, in Our Companion.

What do you think, Mr. Angell, of the usual American ways of celebrating the Fourth of July in our cities?

Answer.—I think they are teaching the children not true patriotism—but war, bloodshed, murder. I think the time may come when the Christian churches of America will find better ways of teaching children gratitude to the Almighty for the blessings of liberty.

THE DAWN OF PEACE.

Put off, put off your mail, O kings,
And beat your brands to dust!
Your hands must learn a surer grasp,
Your hearts a better trust.

O, bend aback the lance's point,
And break the helmet bar;
A noise is in the morning wind,
But not the note of war.

Upon the grassy mountain paths
The glittering hosts increase—
They come! They come! How fair their feet!
They come who publish peace.

And victory, fair victory,
Our enemies are ours!
For all the clouds are clasped in light
And all the earth with flowers.

Aye, still depressed and dim with dew,
But wait a little while,
And with the radiant deathless rose
The wilderness shall smile.

And every tender, living thing
Shall feed by streams of rest;
Nor lamb shall from the flock be lost,
Nor nursing from the nest.

FROM "THE BIGLOW PAPERS."

JAMES RUSSELL LOWELL.

"Whene'er contending princes fight
For private pique or public right,
Armies are raised, the fleets are manned,
They combat both by sea and land.

When, after many battles past,
Both, tired with blows, make peace at last,
What is it, after all, the people get?
Why, taxes, widows, wooden legs and debt."

WORTHY OF THOUGHT.

"No sympathy is worthy of the name which is a respecter of persons. Some centuries ago but a few loving and Christ-like souls claimed brotherhood with all humanity; to-day the circle is wide which does this, and we feel in a sense that we are all our brothers' keepers."

SULPHUR.

As our readers know, we have said much in various numbers of this paper in regard to the efficiency of sulphur for the prevention of yellow fever, and in regard to it have sent evidence to our Secretaries of Navy and War, and our U.S. Surgeon-General, all of which they have duly acknowledged. We do not know whether it is being used now to protect our soldiers from yellow fever or not, but if it is not, it ought to be. We could furnish, if we had space in this paper, any quantity of evidence showing its power, and among the more curious facts which have recently come to us is the following, taken from the Boston Evening Transcript a few nights since:

A farmer writes as follows: "Every year I hear of caterpillars destroying whole orchards. There is nothing so easy to dispose of. I bore a hole in the tree deep enough to reach the sap, fill the hole with sulphur and plug it up. The sap takes the sulphur to every limb and twig and the caterpillars disappear at once. I have used it for years."

Mr. Tyler Andrews of 71 Sydney St., Dorchester, tells us that he is now manufacturing sulphur belts for the purpose of being used in our army and navy. He tells us he has received more than two thousand letters from persons in various parts of the United States who have been benefitted by the use of sulphur in belts, pads, stockings and various other ways. He will doubtless be glad to answer letters on the subject which we are too busy to attend to.

NEW BAND OF MERCY BADGES.

There having been a wide call for cheaper Band of Mercy badges, we have succeeded in adding to the kinds we have been using a new badge in the two sizes above represented. They are very handsome—a white star on a blue ground, with gilt letters, and we sell them at bare cost, five for ten cents, in money or postage stamps, or larger numbers at same price. We cannot attend to smaller orders than five.

UNCLE BEN AND HIS MORGAN MARE.

AS TOLD BY HIS PASTOR.

Uncle Ben, I met him early in my pastoral pursuits, Typical Vermonter standing straight, and six feet out of boots. I was thirty, he was eighty, but this single sign appeared
Of Time's wasting work—the whiteness of his locks and flowing beard.
At the close of my first sermon, with a friendly hand and smile,
By the altar rail he met me, led me down the middle aisle,
Introduced me to the people, praised the pastors gone before,
Told me how and where to find him, as we parted at the door:—
"Go up by the village school-house, take the first road to your right,
Keep on till you pass three houses, two are brown and one is white;
When you reach the sign-board standing just beyond the water-box,
Turn sharp to your left hand, leaving on your right a ledge of rocks,
Go straight down the hill and follow, still your left, a shady lane,
Leave a clearing on your right hand—there, I guess I've made it plain.
Keep on through a sugar orchard, not the best of roads, and then
Right before you stands a farm-house; I live there; "I'm 'Uncle Ben.'"
Going out I met my brother half way through the shady lane,
Leading at his side a Morgan with his hand thrust in her mane,
"Handsome horse she's been," I ventured, after greeting, to remark,
And his clear blue eye responded in a moment with a spark
Of electric fire, and smiling, he said, "Parson, walk with me
To the pasture just beyond us, then go home and stop to tea."
I assented. Then he gossiped: "This old creature's name is Fan;
Morgan horses come the nearest in intelligence to man.
I must tell you something, parson, since you kind of like the mare,
What occurred one fall as I was driving out to our State Fair.
Fan was trotting gently onward, I was taking in the scene,
Nature never looked so lovely, never seemed so sweet and clean;
Round the hills a purple splendor like an ocean seemed to float,
And the maple groves stood wearing Joseph's many colored coat.
Presently a team o'ertook us, and I heard the driver cry
In a rude, sarcastic manner, 'Now, old man, let us go by!'
Looking round I saw two dandish, pert young fellows with a black,
High-stepping, stylish, showy creature, they could hardly hold him back.

I was just about to give them all they wanted of the way
When, 'old fossil,' said the other, 'we can't take your dust to-day.'
'May be not,' I said. He answered, 'We don't ride behind the heels
Of your old Green Mountain creepers; turn out, or off come your wheels.'
I looked back at those two dandies, and said meekly, 'Is that so?'
Turned to Fan, took up the ribbons, uttered one short message, 'Go.'
As the tiger bounds elated in the forest on his prey,
As the floods rush through the meadows when the mill dam breaks away,
So this Morgan, bless her, straightened at one bound and struck a pace
That had heaps of business in it, and we settled down to race.
Road was full of teams and people, but they heard the noise and drew
Up against the wayside fences, making room to let us through.
How they cheered as we shot past them, women cheered as well as men,
I could hear their voices shouting, 'Let her out: 'Go, Uncle Ben.'
And I went. Fan understood it, took the bit right in her teeth,
While the trees and fences round us, and the firm ground underneath
Flew behind us. Dogs were barking, geese ran cackling, fowls flew
High above the barnyard fences, dust in clouds behind us, too.
That was travelling—parson—travelling; every buckle, girth and strap
Seemed alive. Fan's neck extended and her tail laid in my lap,
Over hilltops, down through hollows, crossing bridges with a bound,
And the wheels went so like lightning that they hardly touched the ground.
Well, I'm most ashamed to tell it, but Fan went at such a rate
That I thought it best to head her for the race-course through the gate,
And so calm her down and cool her, get her sobered well in hand;
But the horses were just starting as we reached the judges' stand,
And the folks that tend the races had the biggest kind of show,
For the instant that the starter shouted out the message 'Go!'
Fan was in it; couldn't stop her; and the jockeys in their gigs,
With their whips adorned with ribbon, in their regular racing rigs,
Whipped and shouted; but, no matter, I was leading with a mare
That had never struck a hoof on a race-course at a fair.
Don't believe in races—parson;—never did, but this was one
Of the purest of surprises, and the people had the fun.
There I was, old-fashioned buggy, old straw hat, without a whip,
Leading round the whole procession at a clean twenty clip.
How the people cheered and shouted, 'Go it, hayseed! You will win!'
And I went in; couldn't help it; Fan was going then like sin,
With that old Green Mountain Morgan, little cyclone sort of pace,
It's superlative abandon and it's fascinating grace,
But the jockeys entered protest for they saw that they were beat;
I was not a regular entry, and could run no other heat.
I was glad of the conclusion, and proceeded to explain,
But the crowd broke into cheering and the band struck up a strain,
So we left the course with honor, Fan and I, but, parson, just
Beyond the gate were those dandies with a horse all foam and dust
Just beside us, so I raised my hat and said, in my cool way,
'How is business, boys, progressing, taking wheels off this fine day?'
But they didn't seem to hear me; their attention had been led

To some interesting object; they were looking straight ahead.

When they pass Green Mountain Morgans, with our sort of hills to climb,
They must get up pretty early and be busy all the time.

Here's the pasture, parson; kindly drop the bars down, two or three;

Thanks. 'Go, Fan.' Just see her, parson. Now, come home and stay to tea."

PROTECTION OF BIRDS.

Our readers will remember that we have for gratuitous distribution, to all who will undertake to properly post them, our placards for the protection of birds, offering twenty prizes of $10 each and forty prizes of $5 each, for evidence which will enable us to convict any person of violating the laws of Massachusetts by killing birds or taking eggs from their nests.

PHEBE CARY.

Phoebe Cary wrote, when only seventeen years of age, perhaps the most beautiful of all her poems, commencing

"One sweetly solemn thought
Comes to me o'er and o'er,
I am nearer home to-day,
Than I have ever been before."

and ending

"Father, perfect my trust,
Let my spirit feel in death
That her feet are firmly set
On the rock of living faith."

The Rev. Russell H. Conwell, of Philadelphia, says that once visiting a Chinese gambling-house he found two Americans drinking and gambling there, the older, who was winning all the money, constantly giving utterance to the foulest profanity. While the older was dealing the cards for another game the younger began singing the words of the first verse, but as he sang the older stopped dealing, and, throwing down the cards, said, "Where did you learn that?" "In an American Sunday-school," said the younger.

"Come," said the elder gambler, getting up; "come, Harry; here's what I have won from you; go and use it for some good purpose. As for me, as God sees me, I have played my last game and drank my last bottle. I have misled you, Harry, and I am sorry. Give me your hand, my boy, and say that for old America's sake, if for no other, you will quit this infernal business."

It gave Miss Cary great happiness to learn of this incident before her death.

A WISE RULE.

Among the rules of a New York livery stable where the animals of many wealthy men are kept, are the following: "No man will be employed who drinks intoxicating liquors. No man shall speak loud to any of the horses, or in the stable where they are. Horses of good blood are nervous, and loud, excited conversation is felt by every horse who hears it, and keeps them all nervous and uneasy. No man shall use profane language in the hearing of horses."

A QUICK REPLY.

That quick wit is not confined to cities was proved the other day by a young woman who was rambling along one of our roads.

She was dressed smartly, and when she met a small, bare-legged urchin carrying a bird's nest with eggs in it, she did not hesitate to stop him.

"You are a wicked boy," she said. "How could you rob that nest? No doubt the poor mother is now grieving for the loss of her eggs."

"Oh, she don't care," said the boy, edging away; "she's on your hat!"

THE LAUNCHING OF THE SHIP.

HONESTY IN NORWAY AND SWEDEN.

Had Abraham Lincoln lived in Norway or Sweden, probably he would never have been known to the world as "Honest Abe," because there honesty is so common as to attract no attention. Travellers tell us that at the railway restaurants passengers help themselves to whatever they wish, and then report what they have eaten and pay for the same without any questions being asked. A person's word is always taken, and he is never watched. On the steamboats, after each meal, a traveller writes down in a large book what he has eaten. When ready to go ashore, he calls a waitress, who affixes a price to each item, adds up the amount, receives the money, and puts it in her pocket. When filled, she gives the money, without counting, to the stewardess. Instead of making them careless, they are more scrupulously honest than any other nation in the world.

WE OUGHT TO HAVE $500,000 A YEAR.

Friends who ask us for large gifts of our literature, must remember that our publications and work are now reaching not only over our own country but largely around the world.

With utmost care it is costing us now nearly $50,000 a year to pay printer's and other bills.

If we only had the means we should be glad [as some of our denominational missionary societies are now doing] to spend $500,000 a year in humanely educating the coming generations.

If we had the means we could increase to ten times their present number the "Bands of Mercy" of our "American Humane Education Society," whose mottoes are "Glory to God, Peace on Earth, Kindness, Justice and Mercy to every living creature."

The late Frances E. Willard wrote us: "I look upon your mission as a sacred one, not second to any founded in the name of Christ."

A STRONG PLEA FOR CAGED ANIMALS.

A New York friend sends us the following from the New York Herald:

PLEA FOR CAGED ANIMALS.

To the Editor of the Herald:

Among a people who support societies for the prevention of all forms of cruelty, it seems impossible that such absolute barbarism as is practised upon the poor animals confined in the Central Park menagerie could exist.

I noted in a walk among these cages yesterday an attempt to place some few of the animals in such surroundings as nature places them in. For instance, deer, goats, bears and prairie dogs have large, open enclosures, where they may get exercise and find relief from the monotony of captivity. But the lions, hyenas, wolves, the soft-eyed Alaska dogs, pace back and forth, back and forth, year in and year out, in cages so small as hardly to permit of a turn of their bodies. Why? And again why?

With all the park for space, and certainly money enough for a bit more flooring and a few more bars, there is no excuse why those poor things should be subjected to such wanton, barbarous cruelty. Forego some of the flower-beds if necessary, and put these helpless creatures into some humane quarters.

Even apart from all this, surely this menagerie, like others, is kept for the supposed purpose of the educational value afforded by the study of animal life. What opportunity and what value is it then, pray, when the animals themselves are cooped up in little boxes where they cannot by any possibility portray any of their habits, not even that one that God gave them in greater beauty, in greater degree and in more grace than ourselves, the glorious habit of movement.

May this appeal touch the heart of some whose love of animals may make them susceptible to these animals' cry.

BRANDON DOUGLAS.

No. 421 West Fifty-seventh Street,
New York, June 11, 1898.

Our friend adds the following:

NEW YORK, July 10, 1898.

In your remarkable little paper, of which I am always an eager reader, I would much like to see this plea for caged animals, and hope it will find response in many a human heart.

I can truly say I never drive past the animal quarters in our New York city park without a mental shudder as I realize the fate of the hapless creatures confined there in their narrow accommodations, enduring in hopeless inactivity a life sentence which can end only in death.

What can be more pitiful than the fate to which we doom them?

Twelve long years the elephant, Tip, was subjected to this living death—what wonder that he was frenzied into a condition which finally made it imperative to kill him.

What selfishness we inculcate in our children when we encourage them to gain their pleasure and entertainment in that which turns the life of any sensitive being into extreme suffering.

And as to the "opportunity for study" which these caged creatures afford! It is not very unlike [it seems to me] attempting to study normal human nature under life sentence in a prison cell.

How much more true and realistic would be the impression which a child would receive from stuffed specimens standing in apparent health and vigor, than from the living animals languishing in despair and misery, or pacing the cruel cages in frantic efforts to be free.

Please accept the enclosed hundred dollars for your blessed work, in whose humane scope I trust will be included the hopeless caged prisoners for whom I plead.

With most earnest wishes for your health and long continued usefulness among us.

Respectfully.

"BLESSED ARE THE MERCIFUL."

We have recently had hung in our principal office [in a large frame and conspicuous position] the names of those who have kindly remembered our two Societies in their wills.

When we get a building we intend to have them so engraved in it as to last through the centuries.

ANGELL PRIZE CONTESTS.

A splendid way to raise money in schools, churches, Sunday-schools, or elsewhere for any object preferred.

ANGELL PRIZE CONTESTS IN HUMANE SPEAKING.

We have beautiful sterling silver medals, of which this cut shows the size and face inscriptions.

On the back is inscribed "The American Humane Education Society."

We sell them at one dollar each, which is just what we pay for them by the hundred.

Each is in a box on red velvet, and we make no charge for postage when sent by mail.

The plan is this: Some large church or public hall is secured, several schools or Sunday-schools are invited to send their best speaker or reciter to compete for the prize medal; some prominent citizen presides; other prominent citizens act as the committee of award, and a small admission fee, ten or twenty cents, pays all the costs, and leaves a handsome balance for the local humane society or "Band of Mercy," or school or Sunday-school or church or library or any other object preferred.

It is a splendid and easy way to raise money.

We have a book of 192 pages describing the plan and containing beautiful selections to be used by the speakers and reciters in these contests, which our "American Humane Education Society" sends to those who are going to contest, on receipt of six cents in postage stamps to pay postage; and to all others for sixteen cents in postage stamps, which is precisely what they cost us with postage.

Every school taking part wants to attend, so do parents and friends; good music is added, and a full audience is insured, and a very enthusiastic one, for every school of course cheers its champion, and, for a week after, the merits of what was said and how it was said will be discussed, not only by children but by parents.

As before stated, these prize contests have been already recommended by the Master of the National Grange for all the Granges of our country—also by the National Superintendent of the Department of Mercy of the W. C. T. U., to be adopted by that organization all over the country, and they have attracted notice from the press as far off as London and Australia.

We have already many orders for both books and medals, and on our table are interesting accounts of their success in various cities and towns.

PRIZES $675.

In behalf of The Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals I do hereby offer (1) $100 for evidence which shall enable the Society to convict any man in Massachusetts of cruelty in the practice of vivisection.

(2) $25 for evidence to convict of violating the recently-enacted law of Massachusetts against vivisections and dissections in our public schools.

(3) $100 for evidence to convict any member of the Myopia, Bingham, Dedham, Harvard or Country Clubs, of a criminal violation of law by causing his horse to be mutilated for life.

(4) $50 for evidence to convict anyone in Massachusetts of a violation of law by causing any horse to be mutilated for life by docking.

(5) Twenty prizes of $10 each, and forty prizes of $5 each, for evidence to convict of violating the laws of Massachusetts by killing any insect-eating bird or taking eggs from its nest.

GEO. T. ANGELL, President.

OUR PRIZE STORY PRICES.

Black Beauty in paper covers, 6 cents at office, or 10 cents mailed; cloth bound, 25 cents each at office, or 30 cents mailed.

Hollyhurst, Strike at Shane's, Four Months in New Hampshire, also Mr. Angell's Autobiography, in paper covers, 6 cents each at office, or 10 cents mailed; cloth bound, 20 cents each at office, or 25 cents mailed.

Beautiful Joe at publishers' price, 60 cents at office, or 72 cents mailed. Cheaper edition, 25 cents; mailed, 30 cents. Both editions cloth bound.

Postage stamps are acceptable for all remittances.

OUR DUMB ANIMALS.

What is its circulation?

Answer—Regularly between 50,000 and 60,000, and sometimes it has been from 100,000 to 200,000.

IT GOES EACH MONTH TO

All members of our two Humane Societies. Several thousands of business firms and men. All Massachusetts clergy, Protestant and Roman Catholic. All Massachusetts lawyers, physicians, bank presidents and cashiers, postmasters, school superintendents, large numbers of writers, speakers and teachers through the State. About 500 of the Society's agents in almost every Massachusetts city and town.

"Bands of Mercy" through the State. Many subscribers and others through the State. The Boston police. The Massachusetts legislature. Hundreds of coachmen, drivers and teamsters. The editors of all Massachusetts newspapers and other publications. Many newspaper reporters.

All our Humane Societies throughout the entire world. Large numbers of subscribers in our own and foreign countries. Thousands of our Bands of Mercy in our own and other countries. Members of our National Congress. Presidents of all American Colleges and Universities north of Mexico. Writers, speakers, teachers, and many others in various States and Territories. The editors of over twenty thousand American publications, including all in our own country and British America.

Of these over twenty thousand we have good reasons for believing that not less than nineteen thousand, and perhaps more, are read either by editors or by their wives and children.

"The Humane Horse Book," compiled by George T. Angell, is a work which should be read by every man, woman and child in the country. Price, 5 cents.—Boston Courier.

For Light to Benefit Mankind, written by a New York Vice-president of our American Humane Education Society—gratuitously circulated by American Humane Education Society—write us.

In hiring a herdie, coupe, or other carriage never forget to look at the horses and hire those that look the best and have no docked tails. When we take a herdie we pick out one drawn by a good horse, tell the driver not to hurry, but take it easy, and give him five or ten cents over his fare for being kind to his horse. We never ride behind a dock-tailed horse.

Send for prize essays published by Our American Humane Education Society on the best plan of settling the difficulties between capital and labor, and receive a copy without charge.

THE KIND OF FRIEND WE LIKE.

In these war times when we are spending on war so many hundreds [and perhaps thousands] of millions of dollars before we get through, it is gratifying to know that some good friends of the horses and mules and other creatures that suffer so terribly in war, do not forget that we need more than ever before all the help we can obtain in promoting humane education for their protection.

The following little letter is one evidence of it: "Please find enclosed check of $20 for The American Humane Education Society, and $5 to aid in publishing 'Some of New York's 400.' And here is another which comes by same mail from Surrey, England, containing a remittance and an order for a large number of copies of our 'Humane Horse Book,' to be put into the hands of the competitors for prizes in an English horse parade soon to take place.

One thing we must never forget, namely: that the infinitely most important work for us is the humane education of the millions who are soon to come on the stage of action.

GEO. T. ANGELL.

What do you consider, Mr. Angell, the most important work you do?

Answer. Talking each month to the editors of every newspaper and magazine in North America north of Mexico, who in their turn talk to probably over sixty millions of readers.

"Just so soon and so far as we pour into all our schools the songs, poems and literature of mercy towards these lower creatures, JUST SO SOON AND SO FAR SHALL WE REACH THE ROOTS NOT ONLY OF CRUELTY BUT OF CRIME."

GEO. T. ANGELL.

SUCH THINGS DO HAPPEN.

A sad suicide has recently occurred at Biarritz. The story would scarcely be believed had it not been witnessed by a number of people who were walking on the quai. It seems the puppies of a little terrier had been taken from her, and three times did the poor, despairing mother try to throw herself into the sea. Each time she was recovered, but it was evident that she intended to die, for, at length escaping from her rescuers, she threw herself for the fourth time into the water and held her head under until she drowned. The spectators were deeply moved by the sight, and someone cried out that the poor creature be given back one of the pups, but it was then too late. The mother was no more.

Boston Herald.

Such things do happen. We have not only read of many well proved cases but once witnessed one ourselves where a dog deliberately committed suicide.

TRANSPORTATION IN BRAZIL.

From "Mother's Magazine," 1 Madison Avenue, N. Y. City.

FROM OUR AUTOBIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES.

"I will mention another incident which at the time seemed to me providential. I thought it very important, in this edition of two hundred thousand [copies of Our Dumb Animals], to give some account of the horrible cruelties practised in and about the Brighton slaughter-houses. But at the last moment, just as I was going to press, the two men upon whom I had relied [fearing personal danger] backed out, and would furnish me nothing.

"Just then, almost at the last moment, a tall, stern-looking man came into my office, and said: 'You are forming a society to prevent cruelty to animals, ain't you?' I said, 'Yes.'—'Well,' said he, 'I'll join;' and he took out ten dollars and handed me. I thanked him, and said, 'What name, sir?' He gave me his name. 'And where can we send our publications to you?' 'Brighton.'—'Brighton,' said I; 'perhaps you know something about those Brighton slaughter-houses.' 'Well, I should think I ought to,' said he. 'I've run one on 'em about twenty years, and I've done cruelty enough to animals, and now I'm going to see if I can't do 'em some good.'

"In the state of mind I was in just then the tears came into my eyes, and I said to him, 'Who do you suppose sent you here?' 'Well,' said he, 'I kind of thought I would come in.' I said, 'I know who sent you, now please sit down;' and he gave me the very information I wanted, just in time to print two hundred thousand copies for circulation through the State, and to aid in abolishing that whole abominable system which has now given way to our splendid abattoir. I was told afterwards by those who knew this man that it was nothing less than a miracle, for he was never known to give anything before in his life."

Is it too much to expect that some of our American vivisectioners, following the example of Sir Lawson Tait and other eminent English physicians and our own eminent Boston surgeon, Dr. Henry J. Bigelow, will write us one of these days: "In trying to discover some new fact in science I've done cruelty enough to animals, and now I'm going to see if I can't do them some good."

In behalf of "The Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals" I offer One Thousand Dollars for evidence to convict ten persons in Massachusetts of violation of our State law by cruel vivisection—namely, One Hundred Dollars for evidence in each case.

"Blessed are the merciful."

GEO. T. ANGELL, President.

OUR SONG-BIRDS.

In a report of the Smithsonian Institute it is stated that "civilized man is sweeping the wild birds off the face of the earth at such a rate that before long hardly any species of feathered creatures will survive except those that are domesticated."

"The objections to this wanton and cruel destruction of bird life are not sentimental only. If continued, it will soon not only deprive us of one of the most attractive features of rural life, but will surely work a vast amount of harm to the farmers by removing one of the most efficient checks on the increase of insects." The second annual report of the New York Zoological Society (1898) says: "Unless man is willing to accept a place in the list of predatory animals which have no other thought than the wolfish instinct to slay every living species save their own, he is bound by the unwritten laws of civilization to protect from annihilation the beasts and birds that still beautify the earth, and still make it interesting. The only way to save our birds and mammals from annihilation is to arouse an active national sentiment in favor of their preservation."

Mr. W. T. Hornaday, director of the New York Zoological Park, writes: "The persecution of our birds during their nesting season by egg collectors, and by boys generally, has become so universal as to demand immediate and special attention."

Mr. J. Warren Jacobs, Waynesburg, Pa., says: "Numbers of boys from seven to twelve years of age continually rob the birds that nest in the town and its immediate vicinity. Many simply upset the nests and break the eggs; others throw eggs at each other, while some choose to blow the eggs and keep them in cigar boxes. One father brought his son—who was a 'rare collector'—to my place to 'strike a deal' for the sale of three cigar boxes full of eggs—the fruits of the boy's season's work."

Those who are identified with this destruction of bird life must be educated away from it. The pulpit, the press, the law, societies for the protection of birds, may do much; but it is to the educators of the coming man and woman, especially to the teachers of our schools, that this divine mission of touching the hearts and minds of the generation which will be shortly stepping into our place, has been delegated; and influence exerted in this direction cannot but be in the truest sense a work for God and humanity.

BIRDS AND MEN.

[Rev. Hugh O. P., of New York, says that we were once birds, and that birds will one day be men.]

I have often thought, as I watched the birds,
What the robin would say if given words;
He looks so wise as he cocks his head,
And he works so hard for his daily bread.

If ever the sparrow becomes a man,
He will get his living wherever he can;
He will join a club, and chatter away
As young men do at the present day.

It may be the black-coated crow will preach,
Or will solemnly rise to make a speech;
In the choice of his subject he never need pause,
For even in bird-life he talked of his "caws."

The bluebird will be a singer of note,
A tenor, perhaps, with a delicate throat;
His art may be perfect, but still I should long
For the old-fashioned days and the bluebird's glad song.

The young bob-o'-lincoln, and sad whip poor-will,
A touch of the gallant, perhaps, will have still;
And gay scarlet tanager still will be dressed
In smart coat and cap and red velvet vest.

The cat-bird will call, and the wood-pecker drum,
The oriole swing, and the humming-bird hum,
While the solemn old owl, in the tall forest tree,
In those far future days a professor will be.

But, oh, reverend sir, could we ever abide
A world full of men and nothing beside?
Kind parson, we pray you, take back your rash words,
For what would the world be without any birds?

CHAINED IN THE YARD.

'Twas only a dog in a kennel,
And little noise he made;
But it seemed to me, as I heard it,
I knew what that old dog said.

"Another long month to get over;
Will nobody loosen my chain,
Just for a run round the meadow,
Then fasten me up again?"

"Give me my old life of freedom,
Give me a plunge and a swim,
A dash and a dive in the river,
A shake and a splash on the brim."

I patted his head and spoke kindly;
I thought that his case was hard;
Oh! give him a run in the open,
Your dog chained up in the yard.

VACATION SONG.

When study and school are over,
How jolly it is to be free,
Away in the fields of clover,
The honey-sweet haunts of the bee!

Away in the woods to ramble,
Where merrily all day long
The birds in the bush and bramble
Are filling the summer with song.

Away from the stir and bustle,
The noise of the town left behind;
Vacation for sport and muscle,
The winter for study and mind.

There's never a need to worry,
There's never a lesson to learn,
There's never a bell to hurry,
There's never a duty to spurn.

So play till the face grows ruddy
And muscles grow bigger, and then
Go back to the books and study:
We'll find it as pleasant again.

COL. EDWARD P. VOLLUM.

From Col. Edward P. Vollum of the United States Army (retired), now stopping in Munich, Germany, we receive a most kind letter on July 15th, from which we take the following:—

"Your 'Autobiographical Sketches' strike the keynote of all reforms in life, by showing unmistakably that cruelty cannot be controlled nor crime suppressed without going to the bottom and educating children humanely; and they also show most convincingly that the great work of humane education should be a cardinal object of the State, the church, society and the family.

With great respect, yours very faithfully,

EDW. P. VOLLUM."

PREMATURE INTERMENT.

We find among a large pile of evidence of this danger, the following:

"MINISTER LOWELL.—Mr. James Russell Lowell, who has been United States Minister to Spain, was appointed Minister to England some time since by the President, but has hitherto been prevented from making the removal in consequence of the very severe illness of his wife from typhoid fever. The case is a remarkable one in some particulars. A private letter, recently received in this country, states that for several days the life of Mrs. Lowell was despaired of, and that at one time her physician pronounced her dead, and that she was actually prepared for burial. But it was fortunately discovered that life was not extinct, and that she was only lying in a comatose condition. She was returned to her couch, and by careful treatment and vigilant watching was ultimately restored."

Millions are poured into our colleges and universities to educate the brains of America, while almost nothing is done to educate the heart.

PREMATURE BURIALS.

Dr. Alex. Wilder, Professor of Physiology, New York—"In view of the evidence revealed in its pages and of my own experience, I am horrified at the endeavors which are made to lull the public sense into a belief that interments of living persons never, or 'hardly ever' happen. Undertakers could tell stories that, if known, would compel conviction. Cataleptic trance is a source of deception too little understood, and several of the drugs commonly employed, and even hypodermic injections can produce the condition. Your work points out the perils and the precautions suggested against the danger; that will, if generally employed, prove successful. I should want much more than the average doctor's certificate to convince me of the fact of death."

DON'T MAKE YOUR DOGS OR CATS A NUISANCE.

Don't make your dogs or cats a nuisance and subject them to the danger of being poisoned, by putting them out doors in the thickly settled parts of cities and towns in the night or early morning, to disturb the sleep of your neighbors, sick and well.

A NEW USE FOR TOADS.

The latest and most ingenious way of getting rid of roaches and water bugs we have heard of is related of a citizen of Schenectady whose kitchen was infested with them.

A servant, hearing that toads were an antidote, caught three ordinary hop toads and put them in the kitchen. Not a roach or water bug, it is stated, can now be found in the house. The toads have become domesticated, never wander about the house, and are so cleanly and inoffensive that there is no objection to their presence.

Another use for toads is to employ them for insect destroyers in the garden. They are determined enemies of all kinds of snails and slugs, which it is well known can in a single night destroy a vast quantity of lettuce, carrots, asparagus, etc. Toads are also kept in vineyards, where they devour during the night millions of insects that escape the pursuit of nocturnal birds, and might commit incalculable havoc on the buds and young shoots of the vine. In Paris toads are an article of merchandise. They are kept in tubs and sold at the rate of two francs a dozen.—Hampshire Gazette.

A GROTON (CONN.) CAT.

A Groton (Connecticut) family objecting to having the cat in the house and around the stove at all hours of the day, thought to put her out where she could get fresh air and have a proper amount of exercise.

So one day she was put out the back door and told to stay out until she was wanted, but pussy knew a trick worth two of that, and running around to the front door stretched up to her full height and pulled the door bell.

When the ring was answered it is putting it mildly to say that there was astonishment, for instead of an unexpected caller there stood the cat. Without more ado she passed into the house and into the family living room where, taking a cushioned chair, she curled herself up for a snooze.

We very well remember a cat at the country place where we boarded for several summers, which being put out of the dining-room into the kitchen, would go up the back stairs, come down the front stairs, and back through the front door into the dining-room in less than two minutes.—[EDITOR].

THE DOG.

I think every family should have a dog; it is like having a perpetual baby; it is the plaything and crony of the whole house. It keeps them all young. All unite upon Rover. And then he tells no tales, betrays no secrets, never sulks, asks no troublesome questions, and is always ready for a bit of fun.—Spare Hours.

WHY LATIN IS USED BY PHYSICIANS.

"I don't see," said the man who was leaning against the drug-store counter, "why a doctor can't write his prescription in English, instead of Latin."

The druggist said, "You think, I suppose, that the doctor writes his prescription in Latin so it can't be read so easily—so the layman can't steal his trade and learn what he is giving him. But that's all wrong. In the first place, Latin is a more exact and concise language than English, and, being a dead language, does not change, as all living languages do.

"Then, again, since a very large part of all the drugs in use are botanical, they have in the pharmacopoeia the same names that they have in botany—the scientific names. Two-thirds of such drugs haven't any English names, and so couldn't be written in English.

"But suppose a doctor did write a prescription in English for an uneducated patient. The patient reads it, thinks he remembers it, and so tries to get it filled from memory the second time. Suppose, for instance, it calls for iodide of potassium and he gets it confused with cyanide of potassium. He could safely take ten grains of the first, but one grain of the second would kill him as dead as a mackerel. That's an exaggerated case, but it will serve for an illustration. Don't you see how the Latin is a protection and a safeguard to the patient? Prescriptions in Latin he can't read, and consequently doesn't try to remember.

"Now for a final reason. Latin is a language that is used by scientific men the world over, and no other language is. You can get Latin prescriptions filled in any country on the face of the earth where there is a drug-store. We had a prescription come in here the other day which we had put up originally, and which had since been stamped by druggists in London, Paris, Berlin, Constantinople, Cairo and Calcutta. What good would an English prescription be in St. Petersburg?"

Is it cruel to keep a horse locked up in a stable without exercise?

Answer: Just as cruel as it would be to keep a boy, or girl, or man, or woman in the same condition.

If to this is added solitary confinement without the company of other animals, then the cruelty is still greater. GEO. T. ANGELL.

- (4) When grippe or other epidemics are prevailing wear a little crude sulphur in your boots or shoes.

WHAT THE NEW YORK INDEPENDENT SAYS OF THE SPANISH QUEEN.

The court of Maria Christina is said to be one of the most moral that Spain has ever known. The Queen Regent is generous to her friends and charitable to the poor, and has shown a strong religious nature. To-day the sympathies of the civilized world must be with her.

[We add that she never attends a bull-fight.]

WHAT A DOCKED HORSE TELLS.

- (1.) That the owner does not care one straw for the suffering of dumb animals.
- (2.) That the owner does not care one straw for the good opinion of nine-tenths of his fellow-citizens who witness the effects of his cruelty.

Every unkind treatment to the cow poisons the milk—even talking unkindly to her.

CHAUNCEY DEPEW SAYS:

"Twenty-five years ago I knew every man, woman and child in Peekskill, N. Y. And it has been a study with me to mark boys who started in every grade of life with myself to see what became of them. I was up last fall and began to count them over, and it was an instructive exhibit. Some of them became clerks, merchants, manufacturers, lawyers and doctors. It is remarkable that every one of these that drank is dead; not one living of my age. Barring a few who were taken by sickness, every one who proved a wreck and wrecked his family did it from rum and no other cause. Of those who were church-going people, who were steady, who were frugal and thrifty, every single one of them without an exception owns the house in which he lives and has something laid by, the interest of which, with his house, would carry him through many a day. When a man becomes debased by gambling, rum or drink, all his finer feelings are crowded out, and the poor women at home suffer—suffer for those whom they love better than life."

A TIMELY WARNING.

While a British brig was gliding smoothly along before a good breeze in the South Pacific, three months ago, a flock of small birds about the size, shape and color of parquets settled down in the rigging and passed an hour or more resting. The second mate was so anxious to find out the species to which the visiting strangers belonged that he tried to entrap a specimen, but the birds were too shy to be thus caught, and too spry to be seized by the quick hands of the sailors. At the end of about an hour the birds took the brig's course, and disappeared, but towards nightfall they came back and passed the night in the main-top. The next morning the birds flew off again, and when they returned at noon the sailors scattered some food about the decks. By this time the birds had become so tame that they hopped about the decks picking up the crumbs. That afternoon an astonishing thing happened. The flock came flying swiftly toward the brig. Every bird seemed to be piping as if pursued by some little invisible enemy on wings, and they at once huddled down behind the deck-house. The superstitious sailors at once called the captain of the brig, who rubbed his eyes and looked at the barometer. A glance showed that something was wrong with the elements, and the brig was put in shape to outride a storm. The storm came about twenty minutes after the birds had reached the vessel. For a few minutes the sky was like the waterless bottom of a lake—a vast arch of yellowish mud—and torrents of rain fell. Why it did not blow very hard, no one knows; but on reaching port, two days later, the captain learned that a great tornado had swept across that part of the sea. The birds left the vessel on the morning after the storm and were not seen again.—Maryland Bulletin.

HE STOPPED THE TRAIN.

Train No. 20 on the Indianapolis & Vincennes R. R., in charge of Conductor F. W. Russe of Indianapolis, was tearing along toward Indianapolis the other evening fifty miles an hour. The train was loaded with passengers and was behind time. East of Edwardsport Engineer Dorsey saw on the track far ahead a dog that was jumping about and acting in a peculiar manner. The dog's actions looked suspicious and, as a measure of caution, Dorsey shut off the steam, so as to have his train under control. When the train reached a nearer point the dog stood and barked at it, and then, with a yelp, started for the woods.

Then it was that Dorsey saw that there was something red between the rails, and he threw on the emergency brakes and opened the sand-box. The train came to a standstill within ten feet of a pretty flaxen-haired baby in a red frock. The child was about two years old and had been playing with the dog. The train crew ran forward and baggageman Franklin picked up the child, which laughed and crowed and patted his face in glee.

About eight hundred yards distant was a farmhouse, and toward it Franklin started with the baby, to meet a man running toward him like an insane person. It was the child's father, who had missed the baby just as the train stopped and supposed that the little one had been killed. How it got so far away from home and into such a dangerous place no one could understand. The passengers were considerably jolted by the sudden stopping of the train, but no one was hurt, and when they learned the cause of it they clustered about Engineer Dorsey and congratulated him on his caution.—Philadelphia Times.

"Well, what do you want, sonny?" asked the grocer. "I most forget what mamma sent me for," said the perplexed little boy, "but I think it's a can of condemned milk."

A YACHT RACE.

PRETTY POLLY MCINTOSH.

The most accomplished parrot in this part of the world is owned by Henry McIntosh of Machias, Maine, who wouldn't swap her for a trotting horse, says the Bangor News. Poll is a blue-headed Amazon parrot, and was captured 2000 miles up the broad South American river two years ago last fall by George Woodruff, a sailor, who brought her home to live in Maine.

Poll is a beauty. She has a blue hood and other garments of golden brown, green and scarlet; but it is not her beauty, which is only feather deep, that is her chief charm. She is more knowing than a terrier dog and is extremely polite, and furthermore, she has a great ear for music. Miss Julia Flannery, who lives next door to the McIntoshes, has taught Poll to sing, and often now, with an admiring audience of friends and neighbors, the bird will sing a popular concert, the like of which cannot be heard in any theatre.

The other day Poll sang "At the Cross, at the Cross, Where I First Saw the Light," "Throw Out the Life Line," and other gospel hymns, accompanying Miss Flannery with distinct words, fair time and nearly correct tone. Then she sang "After the Ball," keeping step with a sort of schottische up and down the cage. She can rapidly distinguish airs played by Mr. McIntosh upon his violin, and when she feels like it will sing "Annie Rooney," "After the Ball," "Home, Sweet Home," and other songs, without request or prompting further than the sound of the violin.

When asked to kiss visitors, Poll will put her beak close against their faces and give a genuine smack. When visitors are ready to depart, she will say without prompting, "Well, good day—come again sometime." Sometimes she is a little balky, and like many a human singer, has to be coaxed and flattered before she will sing, such as "Bad cold," "Polly is hoarse to-day," and "Nobody plays since father took sick." No person is more prominent in Machias society than Polly McIntosh.

We have repeatedly asked for a single instance in which any important new medical discovery has been made in the past 25 years in Massachusetts, New England or the United States by vivisection, with the name and residence of the discoverer, and though this paper goes every month to several thousand physicians, have received no reply.

WHAT IS THE OBJECT OF THE BANDS OF MERCY?

I answer: To teach and lead every child and older person to seize every opportunity to say a kind word or do a kind act that willmake some other human being or some dumb creature happier.

AT THE SET OF THE SUN.

(From Boston Transcript.)

At the set of the sun,
When our work is done,
With all its tangled web;
When the clouds drift low,
And the stream runs slow,
And life is at its ebb,

As we near the goal,
When the golden bowl
Shall be broken at its fount;
With what sweetest thought
Shall the hour be fraught,
What precious most shall we count?

Nor the flame of the sword,
Nor the wealth we have stored
In perishable things of earth—
Nor the way we have trod
With the intellect broad,
Though that were of precious worth,
Nor the gain we achieved
Through the hearts we have grieved,
And left unhelped by the way,
Nor the laurel of fame,
When, for worldly acclaim,
We toiled in the heat and the fray.

Ah, no! 't is not these
Will give our hearts ease,
When life sinks low in the west;
But the passing sweet thought
Of the good we have wrought,
The saddened lives we have blest.

And the love we have won,
And the love beckoning on
From His islands far and dim;
Love out of the light,
Shining into the night,
The night which leadeth to Him.

Treat every girl as you would like every boy to treat your sister.
